The Fight focuses primarily on Ali, who was a larger-than-life icon during the 1970's. It's too bad Mailer didn't try to gain more insight into Foreman's nature, but perhaps that wasn't an option at the time, since Norman was clearly a member of Ali's camp.

Norman Mailer's frustratingly flawed but sometimes brilliant account, widely regarded as a classic, of the iconic Rumble in the Jungle is the story of three men; former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, unstoppable new champ George Foreman and, of course, being such a narcissist he makes sure to both shove himself into the story as much as possible, refer to himself in the third person and tell us how critics mistakenly think he's a great big narcissist, Norman Mailer.
